We know to be an inclusive workplace we must recognise and support the real challenges our employees face. That's why, during Endometriosis Awareness Month, we introduced a Perimenopausal and Period Policy—because menstrual health matters. We know that conditions like endometriosis, perimenopause, and severe period symptoms can have a profound impact on daily life, including at work. This policy isn't just about improving well-being—it's about retaining and empowering the incredible female talent within our team.

Learn the 5 Key Messages About Dementia

In May, we had the opportunity to welcome Grace Burke from Alzheimer's Society—one of our chosen charities for 2025. She delivered a fun and interactive educational session detailing the 5 key messages they believe everyone should know about dementia.

The interactive chat encouraged participation, discussion, and reflection, strengthening collaboration and fostering a supportive workplace environment.

Employees left with greater awareness and practical communication tips, all while enjoying an interactive, team-building experience.

Pancreatic Awareness Month

In recognition of Pancreatic Cancer Awareness Month, Louise shared her personal perspective on life after her brother's diagnosis. This year, our Birmingham office chose to fundraise for Pancreatic Cancer UK in support of Louise Francis and her brother.

Through her experience, we've been reminded of how easily the symptoms of pancreatic cancer can be overlooked, and the remarkable strength and resilience of her family. Their courage inspires us to raise awareness and contribute to vital research and support.
